IRISNDT announces Bret Moffett as CEO

Edmonton, Alberta, Canada – The IRISNDT Board of Directors appointed Bret Moffett as Chief Executive Officer of the firm last week. Moffett will be based in the United States and will join the Board of Directors for IRISNDT Inspection & Engineering. Previously Moffett served as the CEO of POWER Engineers, a global consulting firm specializing in the delivery of multidisciplinary engineering, environmental, and program management services to the electric power, industrial, and federal markets.

Moffett succeeds Marcel Blinde, who will remain with the firm in the role of Chief Strategy Officer. In his new role, based in Canada, Blinde will actively support the CEO with formulating and executing the company's strategic plan. Blinde will be joining the Board of Directors of IRISNDT Inspection & Engineering.

Moffett earned his B.S. in Computer Science from New Mexico Tech and his M.B.A from Boise State University. He also completed his executive education at the Stanford Graduate School of Business.

“We are pleased to welcome Bret to the IRISNDT team” said Jim Sheard IRISNDT’s Board Chairman. “He will bring a wealth of experience to managing and growing our company to ensure that it remains the first choice for our employees, and clients throughout the U.S.A, Canada, the United Kingdom, Australia, and abroad.”

About IRISNDT
